Thanks Monica for this. Do we have an official press statement or talkers? Considering the statement below identifies sample locations, I would assume this is not it.

Christina,

Please see below for an update. Let us know if you want more information. The EPA website was just updated – www.epa.gov/tirecrumb and has all of the information that can be released to the public. We cannot publicly release the field locations due to privacy concerns. I am happy to discuss if you need more information.

Importance: High

GM all,

I hope your Wednesday is going well. I wanted to check in on tire crumb; I hear that an update on this issue is supposed to be coming up on the DRA call today, and we also have a request from the hill for an update. Is it possible (and it would be incredibly helpful) to get a download from you all as to where we are with the study today?

Feel free to call Ex. 6 Personal Privacy (PP) or respond to this email with any information.

Thanks!
